It is my honour to serve as the new Chair of the Board of Directors. I am impressed with and encouraged by CRKN’s vision of developing projects, partnerships, and initiatives that contribute to the advancement of Canadian research for all. CRKN’s commitment to taking bold steps to achieve access to knowledge ensures its position as a critical partner for universities, libraries, and heritage institutions in Canada and internationally.

Following extensive consultation with members and stakeholders, and months of strategizing, in October 2019, CRKN launched the 2019-2024 Strategic Plan. This plan is ambitious and strives to advance interconnected, sustainable access to the world’s research. The three strategic goals identified in the plan: transform scholarly communication, develop and foster partnerships, and collaborative advocacy define a clear focus for CRKN’s activities as they meet the mission and vision of the organization.

Of the many accomplishments this year, I would like to highlight CRKN’s success in consulting with the Board, committees, and members in preparation for licensing renewals in 2020, leading to the creation of the Stakeholder Alignment Group. There is substantial value in CRKN’s ability to negotiate licenses on behalf of its member libraries – estimated at $150 million a year. This is an excellent example of universities collaborating at a national scale to decrease costs and increase access to knowledge and research infrastructures for students and faculty across Canada.

I would also like to highlight CRKN’s newest collaboration with the Canadian Association of Research Libraries (CARL), which resulted in the launch of the DataCite Canada Consortium. The development of the DataCite Canada Consortium adds to CRKN’s growing support of persistent identifiers as they contribute to research infrastructure. In its heritage activities, CRKN continues to enhance the Canadiana collections, and improve the infrastructure that ensures this documentary heritage is preserved and accessible to researchers and the public. These advancements show exceptional progress towards objectives in this first year of the strategic plan and set the stage for a bright future.

CRKN’s Board of Directors, committees, and task groups provide exceptional guidance and foresight in the development of CRKN initiatives. The dedicated participation of members and stakeholders has been instrumental as CRKN meets the bold objectives of its strategic plan. As a volunteer Board of Directors that oversees over 50 volunteers through participation on committees, sub-committees, and task groups, the community’s contribution to ensuring the success of CRKN is immeasurable.

Meeting CRKN’s mission is more important now than ever. The COVID-19 pandemic has resulted in significant challenges and changes within Canada’s universities. Some of these changes will be short-term but some will have more far-reaching impacts. National infrastructure, tools, services, and partnerships will inevitably aid in bringing together our shared goals and supporting the community in overcoming these challenges this year, and in years to come.

In closing, I would like to congratulate once again the CRKN Board, committees, task groups, and staff for their efforts and achievements this year. I look forward to continuing to work with you.

Sincerely,

Annette Trimbee
President and Vice-Chancellor, MacEwan University
Chair, CRKN Board of Directors
The first half of 2019-2020 saw the finalization of CRKN’s new strategic plan, while the second half of the year provided us with the opportunity to begin implementing our new goals and objectives. The strength of CRKN’s 2019-2024 Strategic Plan is that it builds on past successes while envisioning new paths forward. As I look ahead to the opportunities presented by this plan, which will guide our work in the coming years, I am also pleased to reflect on the important work accomplished this year towards the fulfillment of our strategic goals.

The licensing team with the guidance of the Content Strategy Committee continued to offer the best possible terms for members through negotiated licences. CRKN also took the next steps in advancing our innovative licensing program with the creation of the Stakeholder Alignment Group, which will support CRKN’s 2020 negotiation objectives. The support of the Stakeholder Alignment Group highlights that access to knowledge through licensed content is more than a library issue; it is an issue at the heart of research and knowledge creation.

Open access to research continues to be at the core of CRKN business. This year, we continued our partnership with Érudit and Coalition Publica, supporting the transition to open access for their scholarly journals. To further support open access globally, CRKN has continued its participation in initiatives including SCOAP3 and SCOSS, while nationally, we launched the CRKN Open Access Journals List. For the first time, CRKN hosted a full conference with a significant focus on CRKN’s future role in open scholarship in collaboration with other stakeholders in the research community.

Building on last year’s heritage activities and the transition to access at no charge, CRKN integrated its heritage collections content into two access portals, Canadiana and Héritage, and began the process of decolonizing descriptive subject headings used in the Canadiana collections. This will increase the accessibility of the collections and bring us closer to our goal of offering access to historical materials with up-to-date, accurate, and culturally sensitive metadata. The evolution of the Canadiana access and preservation platforms continued in line with community standards under the guidance of the Preservation and Access Committee. Meanwhile, members of the CRKN team actively participated in several national and international meetings and committees, increasing our engagement with the community on issues critical to our shared future.

This year, CRKN welcomed Dr. Annette Trimbee, who became Chair of the Board of Directors following the 2019 Annual General Meeting. Dr. Trimbee replaces Dr. Alan Shepard, who completed his three-year term in October. CRKN is fortunate to have such excellent leadership from its Board, committees, and task groups, and I thank them for their expertise and unfa ltering dedication in volunteering their time to enact CRKN’s mission and vision.

Finally, I am grateful to the CRKN team, who bring a sense of professionalism and enthusiasm to everything they do. We ended this financial year with the unforeseen closure of the CRKN offices due to the COVID-19 pandemic, and I have been amazed at the resilience and flexibility of staff in adapting to these changes. Together with them, I look forward to the next year of serving our membership and advocating for access to knowledge.

Sincerely,

Clare Appavoo

STRATEGIC PLAN

In October 2019, following unanimous support by members, CRKN launched its 2019-2024 Strategic Plan. Building upon past achievements and looking ahead to future goals and collaborations, we are proud to share an ambitious strategic plan that takes clear steps towards transforming scholarly communications and collaborating to advance open scholarship and access to knowledge.

OUR PROGRAMS

Licensing and Negotiations
Working with librarians, researchers, administrators, funders, and publishers, CRKN undertakes large scale licensing of scholarly content for academic institutions in order to expand research capacity in Canada. Currently, CRKN negotiates and manages over 50 licenses on behalf of its member institutions.

Preservation and Heritage Collections
CRKN provides access to over 60 million pages of Canadian documentary heritage through the Canadiana and Heritage collections and preserves this heritage through the Canadiana Trustworthy Digital Repository (TDR), ensuring its integrity and accessibility as technologies change over time. CRKN also provides digitization services to our member and stakeholder community, providing best-quality digital reproductions of materials that adhere to metadata and technology standards.

Financial Oversight and Sustainability
CRKN’s professional finance staff under the policy framework maintained by the Finance & Audit Committee (FAC) continue to administer over $130M in annual expenditures on behalf of member institutions. The FAC also reviews and supports CRKN’s internal risk management framework and budget development and monitoring process. This includes recommending budget and fee models which support CRKN’s ongoing sustainability, and projecting budget decisions out over a five-year horizon.
Transformation is at the core of our business. In 1999, the Canadian National Site Licensing Program was created to provide an innovative infrastructure to increase Canada’s research capacity. Building on our successes, today, we define and put into place the next act of CRKN’s innovative approach to access to knowledge. Over the past year, we refined our approach to open access and built the groundwork for future initiatives that will increase accessibility to scholarly and heritage content throughout Canada and the world. Learn more about CRKN’s progress towards this strategic objective through our negotiation and licensing activities, heritage services, and more.

Developing and Fostering Partnerships

As a member organization, CRKN understands the importance of partnerships to achieve key goals. Over the past year, we strengthened our relationships with national and international organizations to enrich our network and build towards shared strategic objectives. Read about CRKN’s continued collaborations, as well as administration of the ORCID Canada and DataCite Canada Consortiums in our full report.

Collaborative Advocacy

Over the past year, working collaboratively, we continued advocating for our members and stakeholders. Using data to provide tangible benefits to our community and leveraging our platform to share their perspectives, we encouraged action locally and across the country. Learn more about our progress this year, including CRKN initiatives, collaborative projects, and how we are planning for our future and the future of our members.
CRKN is governed by a volunteer Board of Directors consisting of 12 members (nine elected, three appointed) drawn from the CRKN membership.

CRKN’s Board of Directors is designed to be responsive, adaptable, and representative of the membership, while providing the oversight and strategic vision necessary to lead CRKN’s projects and initiatives.

The accompanying notes are an integral part of the summary financial statements.
1. Basis of presentation

The summary financial statements are derived from the complete set of financial statements of Canadian Research Knowledge Network (CRKN) and they meet the recognition and measurement principles of Canadian accounting standards for not-for-profit organizations. A listing of the significant accounting policies is described in the full statements, including financial instruments, revenue recognition, capital assets, and the use of estimates.

2. Nature of activities

The Canadian Research Knowledge Network (CRKN) was incorporated on April 1, 2004, under the Canada Corporations Act, and continued on November 8, 2013, under the Canada Not-for-Profit Corporations Act.

CRKN’s mission is to advance interconnected, sustainable access to the world’s research and to Canada’s documentary heritage content.

For CRKN member organizations and the diverse communities they serve, the organization empowers researchers, educators, and society with greater access to the world’s research and Canada’s preserved documentary heritage, now and for future generations.

3. Deferred revenue for license fees

Deferred revenue relates to amounts received or receivable from members for license fees for future fiscal years. CRKN matches its license revenue and corresponding license expenses monthly to the period to which the license pertains:

5. Capital management

CRKN manages its capital to ensure that there are sufficient financial resources in place to deliver on the priorities set by the Board of Directors. CRKN does not have any short-term or long-term debt.

CRKN follows a budget monitoring and modification policy to routinely and systematically evaluate financial results to budget and, as required, inform the Finance and Audit Committee and Board of deviations.

CRKN also employs a net assets policy to govern management of net assets and to ensure responsible stewardship of organizational equity on behalf of members. In particular, the policy specifies a minimum and maximum limit to unrestricted net assets, and formally restricts net assets equivalent to 40% of its operation budget each year. For the year ending March 31, 2020, the Board of Directors approved a transfer of $50,000 ($42,077 in 2019) from internally restricted to unrestricted net assets to comply with the net assets policy and ensure sufficient funds for operational contingencies.

6. Commitments

CRKN has commitments for the rental of space through to March 31, 2022, and for the rental of office equipment through to January 2022. Minimum lease payments for the rental period are $346,070 and $40,620, respectively ($337,041 and $47,097, respectively in 2019).

7. COVID-19

On March 11, 2020, the World Health Organization characterized the outbreak of a strain of the novel coronavirus ("COVID-19") as a pandemic, which has resulted in a series of public health and emergency measures that have been put in place to combat the spread of the virus. In accordance with Public Health Ontario’s directives, CRKN offices were closed and staff instructed to work from home beginning March 16, 2020. The duration and impact of COVID-19 are unknown at this time and it is not possible to reliably estimate the impact that the length and severity of these developments will have on the financial results and condition of CRKN in future periods.
